3. Associate Dean Varga presented the Association of American Universities (AAU) PhD Education Initiative. He discussed the mission of the initiative, cohort of pilot universities (including the University of Iowa), how the initiative will unfold in phase 1, the vision of including the Innovation in Graduate Education challenge grant winners, and the goal of data transparency towards a student-centered transformation.
4. The Graduate College, along with all college and vice president units, was charged by Executive Vice President and Provost Fuentes with creating/updating their strategic plan. A call for steering committee nominations was distributed to the Associate Deans for Graduate Education, Graduate Council, Directors of Graduate Studies, all graduate faculty and all graduate students. After September 30th the committee will be formed. It is anticipated the committee will be comprised of two co-chairs and nine committee members. Dean Keller will not direct the committee but he will supply information to them in order to guide them towards feasible goals. The draft strategic plan will be submitted to leadership in February after conducting listening sessions. He will ask the steering committee co-chairs to meet with Graduate Council at a future meeting.

5. Associate Dean Campo announced that today is the PostComp and Ballard Seashore fellowship application deadline. Some fellowship stipends are increasing from $9,500 to $10,000 as a means to remain competitive for high quality students. In her Fellowships Update presentation the number of awards by fellowship type in FY19 were discussed. She divided the information by significant touch points such as recruitment, retention, completion, and professional development (e.g. travel awards and external fellowship application incentives). Not only will the recruitment fellowship stipend increase result in an additional $17,000 of support to a student over five years, the student will be better supported given the departmental requirement to name two mentors and conduct annual individual development plans/reviews.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:22 AM.
